Statement of policy

The dignity of the human person is the foundation of all Catholic social teaching and intrinsic to our education ministry. Consequently, the principle that the person is made in the image and likeness of God, is central to the mission of all our parish school communities.

As a system of Catholic schools we acknowledge the importance of the nature of the learner and the learning process within the evangelising mission of the Catholic Church. This policy identifies the interconnectedness of the characteristics of quality Catholic learning and teaching and has been designed to value, respect and promote the self-esteem and dignity of each learner. A Catholic world-view integrates faith, life and culture. The school will be encouraged to actively promote anti-bullying messages alerting students and staff of the need to be vigilant.

A separate Anti Bullying Policy and Procedures Template designed for school use accompanies this diocesan policy. The template can be used to build a school policy and procedures statement that meets compliance requirements.

Scope of the policy

This diocesan student Anti-Bullying Policy fosters a cohesive approach to the issue of bullying by providing schools with policy advice and procedures which must be incorporated into an individual school Anti Bullying Policy and Procedures statement. This policy statement includes leadership considerations, professional learning activities and specific initiatives which are designed to promote pastoral care, wellbeing and safe school communities.

This policy covers the bullying of students with disabilities. Disabled children and young people need:

- To know they have the right to be safe from bullying. They need to know what bullying is, how to keep safe and what to do if adults do not do enough to stop the bullying
- To be involved in the development and review of school anti-bullying policies
- All children and young people need to know what to do to help stop a disabled child or disabled young person being bullied

Essential to this is the creation and maintenance of a respectful, safe and supportive learning environment that promotes student wellbeing and enables school communities to engage a diverse range of learners.

The Diocesan approved poster resource, included in this policy, Nine Elements for a Parish School Approach to Wellbeing (Appendix E), is based on the work of the National Safe Schools framework and will assist schools locate bullying issues within a wider pastoral care/wellbeing context.

It is vital that learning technologies are used ethically and responsibly in the school environment, so that communication is respectful and human dignity valued. Bullying, cyber-bullying, harassment, aggression and violence disregard core values of our faith including dignity, respect, justice, equity, compassion, trust and courage. Importantly, such actions can adversely affect the wellbeing of students and are therefore unacceptable.

All members of our school communities are expected to prevent and challenge such actions in order to build respectful relationships that respond effectively and sensitively to the needs of each person.

Context

Definition of Bullying

Bullying is a pattern of repeated physical, verbal, psychological or social aggression that is directed towards a specific student by someone with more power and is intended to cause harm, distress and/or create fear. By contrast, conflict between equals and single incidents are not defined as bullying although, of course, such incidents may require intervention by the school. Bullying of any form or for any reason can have long-term physical and psychological effects on those involved, including bystanders.

Bullying may be carried out overtly (e.g. face – to – face) or covertly (e.g. through repeated social exclusion or via technology). It is a sub-category of aggression and is different to, but also related to, harassment and violence. It is not the same as conflict or social dislike even though, in some cases, the outcome of both can be bullying.

The different types of bullying identified by the National Safe Schools Framework (NSSF) include:

Face-to-face bullying (sometimes referred to as direct bullying) involves physical actions such as punching or kicking or overt verbal actions such as name-calling and insulting.

Covert bullying (sometimes referred to as indirect bullying) is a subtle type of non-physical bullying which isn't easily seen by others and is conducted out of sight, and often unacknowledged by adults.

Cyber-bullying occurs through the use of information or communication technologies such as Instant Messaging, text messages, email and social networking sites. Cyber-bullying involves the use of any information and communication technology involving deliberate, isolated or repeatedly hostile behaviour by an individual or group, that is intended to harm others or is undertaken recklessly, without concern for its impact on others. By virtue of its nature, technology facilitates repeated access to harmful content. It has many similarities with offline bullying but it differs in that the student(s) who is/are bullying can be anonymous, it can reach a wide audience and the sent or uploaded material can be difficult to remove.

Most students who cyber bully also bully off-line. It is now recognised that many forms of covert bullying appear to have significant potential for serious harm.

This definition of bullying is standard across the Diocese and must be included in school anti-bullying policies.

Of particular note is the use of digital technologies which are very much a part of life and learning, offering a wide range of tools and platforms for social and educational engagement. However, the risks of the digital environment must be acknowledged and addressed. Being cyber safe and acting ethically when using electronic communications is the responsibility of all members of each school community.

A School's Duty of Care

If bullying occurs which is foreseeable (a teacher or other school staff member knew of, or ought to have known of, a bullying incident) a breach of the school's duty of care towards students could have occurred.

Schools must take reasonable action to develop plans and implement programs aimed at deterring bullying activities. Schools need to have procedures in place to respond effectively to bullying incidents. There must be a system in place in the school so that this Diocesan Student Anti-Bullying Policy and the school-based Anti-Bullying Policy and Procedures are disseminated as appropriate to members of the school community.

In the case of students with disabilities, schools need to take action to prevent bullying and ensure a whole-school approach is adopted to tackling and eliminating bullying. The school needs to ensure that staff show leadership in valuing differences between children. Staff must be able to identify when a disabled child or young person is being bullied and what to do to prevent bullying.

Principals must report conduct to the police where a serious criminal offence has been identified. Such circumstances can include (but are not limited to) stalking, destruction of property, threats to inflict serious injury and/or kill, physical and sexual assault, offensive behaviour, discrimination, cyber stalking, defamation, breach of privacy, hacking, sexting and creating or possessing and/or disseminating child pornography.

In many instances, cyber-bullying can constitute criminal conduct, especially when the behaviour is seriously threatening, harassing or intimidating. According to The National Safe Schools Framework (2011) "E-crimes are illegal actions that are carried out through the use of internet or mobile phone technology. They include: child pornography, fraud, impersonation, or sending words or images that cause offence, distress, menace or threaten. Most of these are crimes under Australian federal law but some are also (or only) crimes under some Australian state laws."

If unacceptable behaviour occurs that has a close nexus with the school or with the wellbeing of a child educated at the school but occurs outside school hours, off-site or through the use of a student's personal mobile devices and/or computer, school leadership personnel may still have an obligation to respond. School leaders may have limited obligations to respond to bullying, threatening behaviour, cyber-bullying and inappropriate use of digital technologies when this occurs on devices or networks not actually managed by the school, and there is no close nexus with the school.
